Situated in the heart of Los Angeles, USC welcomes students from around the world.
International students make up nearly a quarter of the total student population.

18 percent of first-year students come to USC from numerous countries around the world.

Are you ready to join this dynamic community?

Student Services

Office of International Services
ois.usc.edu

The Office of International Services helps newly admitted students and currently enrolled international students ease their transition to life in the U.S.

Internship and Job Opportunities

The city also provides a wide array of opportunities for students looking for internships and jobs. Each year, more than 750 companies recruit on campus.

Admission
admission.usc.edu

With a few exceptions, international applicants to USC will follow the same application steps as other first-year or transfer applicants. We are familiar with the educational systems of most countries and will consider your application within the context of your educational environment.

Learn more about important international applicant considerations at admission.usc.edu/international.

Demonstration of English Proficiency
International applicants should plan on submitting results from a USC-approved English proficiency examination. Those who hold citizenship in countries where English is the official language and is spoken by the majority may not be required to submit additional documentation of English proficiency.

Financial Considerations
To be eligible for student visas, international students are required by the U.S. government to submit proof of sufficient financial support. International students are not eligible for need-based financial aid.
